

Date

Marriage is incredible! Next to Father God, it is the most intimate of relationships. It is here that we are most known, loved, respected and celebrated. At least, that is the goal. Our messiness still gets in the way at times, but the commitment to Father God and each other keeps us moving one step at a time. A great tool to keep these steps moving in a forward direction is a date. I mean, a great date! A time where conversation occurs over a great meal, where defenses are down and the focus is on all that is right instead of wrong. An intentional time of celebrating each other and your life! So, hopefully you will find these items below to be the ingredients for such a date. Sometime this month, capture a dinner together and use the questions and/or activities to stir up some “life that is truly life” moments!

Ingredients for a Great Date – round 5

1. What do you celebrate this week? What was your greatest challenge this week?
2. I like it when you call me
3. What do I do/say that makes you feel most confident, strong, secure or loved?
4. Describe a moment when you saw these attributes of Jesus lived out in your spouse. Choose one to discuss or more – up to you!
 - Humility
 - Compassion
 - Patience
 - Sacrifice
5. Describe a great kiss!
